Retirement: What’s Your Plan?

You’ve reached retirement, and now it’s time to enjoy the next chapter of your life. But should unforeseen circumstances arise—such as the possible need for long term care—do you have a plan to help ensure your hard-earned savings are protected?

Including the Federal Long Term Care Insurance Program (FLTCIP)—designed specifically for the federal family—as part of your retirement plan can help safeguard your savings and assets should you ever need long term care.

Note: Certain medical conditions, or combinations of conditions, will prevent some people from being approved for coverage. You need to apply to find out if you qualify for coverage under the FLTCIP.

THEME

The theme this year provides a single focus for all AAPI’s to unite by speaking together. This theme encourages the various AAPI communities to join together to overcome misconceptions and stereotypes about the vibrant and diverse AAPI community. The AAPI experience varies greatly and all groups must join together to communicate our individual experiences. Diversity is a journey and we cannot travel there alone. By uniting our voices, we can raise issues and tell stories that elevate the AAPI community. With this theme, we hope to improve representation in the workplace by communicating the benefits of a diverse workforce. Many voices together can break the glass ceiling.

ABOUT FAPAC

The Federal Asian Pacific American Council (FAPAC) was founded in 1985. FAPAC is a nonprofit, nonpartisan organization representing the civilian and military Asian Pacific American (APA) employees in the Federal and District of Columbia governments.

FAPAC is organized exclusively for educational purposes within the meaning of Section 501 (c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code. The primary purpose of FAPAC is to serve as an interagency association within the Federal and District of Columbia governments, providing a focus for over thirty ethnically distinct groups originating from Asian and Pacific regions as recognized by the United States Bureau of Census.

MISSION

FAPAC is an organization that promotes equal opportunity and cultural diversity for APAs within the Federal and District of Columbia governments. FAPAC encourages the participation and advancement of APAs in the government workforce.

VISION

FAPAC will be a nationally recognized organization that serves as a conduit through which the interests, issues and representation of APAs in the Federal and District of Columbia governments are addressed. It will also promote partnerships with the public and private sectors in the community it serves.

NRCS proudly supports the Federal Asian Pacific American Council National Leadership Training Program

USDA is an equal opportunity provider, employer, and lender.
On behalf of the FAPAC National Board of Directors and the National Board of Operations, it’s my great honor and pleasure to extend our warmest welcome to you to the FAPAC’s 32nd Annual National Leadership Training Program (NLTP). The yearly national leadership and training conference is FAPAC’s flagship event. Through this training and conference, we’ll practice FAPAC’s organizational values and achieve its objectives by striving to be a transformational organization for all the Asian Pacific Americans (APAs).

This year’s theme is “Unite Our Voices by Speaking Together”. It is through the many speakers and workshops we offer at the NLTP that we’ll learn from each other, collaborate, and prepare to go out and fulfill FAPAC’s mission: to increase awareness of the APA representation at all levels of the government workforce. It’s important for us to have one voice and share our message of the importance of diversity and inclusion in this unique time in our history as an organization and as public servants.

I commend our past presidents--their leadership paved the way and made what FAPAC is today, with remarkable progress in its commitment to implement and use an educational-based approach to increase participation and advancement of APA managers and employees in the federal government, D.C. government, and military. Our partners with the different agencies in leadership training programs were keys in the tremendous contributions in increasing diversified and qualified APA managers in the workforce and this great country.

Also, many thanks to our many volunteers, sponsors and supporters for their continued commitment and support to FAPAC and its members, and make a big difference in the lives of the APAs in the civil service and military.

Again, we welcome you to this very exciting leadership training! We hope you’ll take this opportunity to network and be inspired by the many diverse attendees and speakers. Take back to your work the knowledge, skills and leadership gained from the many workshops and plenary sessions. Please accept our appreciation for your continuous support.

Warmest Regards,

Olivia F Adrian, President
Agricultural Marketing Service

On behalf of the Conference Committee and the many volunteers, we welcome you to the 32nd annual National Leadership Training Program (NLTP). The theme for this year is Unite Our Voices by Speaking Together. This theme encourages the various AAPI communities to join together, with one voice, to overcome misconceptions and stereotypes about the vibrant and diverse AAPI community.

Delivering a high-quality, well-balanced training program has been one of FAPAC’s long standing goals. As conference chairs, we strived to bring you a dynamic and robust program that would assist federal employees, and in particular, the Asian Americans and Pacific Islander demographic in advancing their career and promoting personal growth. This would not be possible without the committed and loyal supporters from our many sponsors, partners, presenters, conference committee members and volunteers.

This year is particularly challenging for FAPAC due to the change in administration which happens with every election. However, this did not stop the supports from our partners. Our team has worked with those who supported us by monetary funding or in-kind contributions. Federal sector includes USDA, NASA, DOT, DOD, DOI, OPM, and EEOC, just to name a few. Private sector supporters include Blue Cross Blue Shield, Federal Long Term Care Insurance Program, GEICO, Federal Advantage, and GEHA. Many of these supporters have been with us for a long time and we truly appreciate their loyalty.

Let’s take a glimpse of the program and activities of this year’s NLTP. We are featuring a fashion show representing the many AAPI cultures, a lion dance, and a traditional dance. We are honored to have such notable speakers at our luncheons and dinners. Our plenary sessions include SES Pathway, EEO Forum, OPM Diversity and Inclusion Forum, Women Empowerment, and much more. The highlight of our workshops include overcoming barriers to employment, unconscious bias, communication, management skills, financial and retirement planning and more.

We are very appreciative of our web team, who has helped to transform FAPAC’s website with new and updated content and enhanced FAPAC’s collaborative abilities with Google G Suite. The logistic team, whose works behind the scenes, keep things running like clockwork. We are inspired by FAPAC President Olivia Adrian’s leadership. She strives to lead FAPAC to a higher level. When needed, she would roll up her sleeves and work together with the conference subcommittee leads to get tasks done. Let’s not forget Dr. Kin Wong who has retired from DOT, but continues to be highly involved with FAPAC, volunteering countless hours. We want to express our gratitude to all of the dedicated and hardworking volunteers of whom we rely on.

We hope you enjoy this year’s National Leadership Training Program and take the opportunity to network with other attendees and presenters, make new friends, and apply what you have learned here back at your workplace and communities. We value your feedback. Please complete the evaluation form for each session.

Sincerely,

Marina Milton

NLTP Planning Meeting with FAPAC staff and volunteers.

FAPAC Officers and Committee Chairs at Quarterly meeting in February 2017 at Tri-Cor Industries office.
FAPAC has grown in the last few years to become a premier organization representing the interest of all Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders (AAPI) in the federal and District of Columbia governments. There are more than 700 members in every state and has over 200 lifetime members. FAPAC is represented at every level of government, from entry level to senior executives and include all branches of the military. Although well represented with many of the over 30 countries designated as AAPI under the Census Bureau, FAPAC still faces the challenge of getting significant membership from some of these countries, especially from the Pacific Islanders. To become a member, visit www.fapac.org/membership.

In addition to regular members, FAPAC also has Honorary Members who are nominated by the President with the approval of the Board of Directors. Honorary Members are community leaders who are recognized for their service to the AAPI community and also are strong active advocates of the FAPAC brand and mission. Some examples are:

- Representative Cindy Ryu - first Korean woman elected to the Washington legislature
- Conrad Lee - first Asian Mayor of Bellevue, WA
- Senator Susan Lee - first Chinese American State Senator for Maryland after several terms in the Maryland House of Delegates
- Delegate Mark Keam - Korean American representative in the House of Delegates in Virginia

This month, we celebrate Asian American and Pacific Islander Heritage Month, and we recognize the achievements and contributions of Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders that enrich our Nation.

Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders have distinguished themselves in the arts, literature, and sports. They are leading researchers in science, medicine, and technology; dedicated teachers to our Nation's children; innovative farmers and ranchers; and distinguished lawyers and government leaders.

Dr. Sammy Lee, a Korean American who passed away last December, exemplified the spirit of this month. Dr. Lee was the first Asian American man to win an Olympic gold medal, becoming a platform diving champion at the 1948 London Olympics only 1 year after graduating from medical school. To fulfill his dreams, Dr. Lee overcame several obstacles, including his local childhood pool's policy of opening to minorities only once per week. Later in life he was subject to housing discrimination (even after 8 years of military service). Dr. Lee nevertheless tirelessly served his country and community, including by representing the United States at the Olympic Games, on behalf of several Presidents.

Katherine Sui Fun Cheung also embodied the spirit of this month. In 1932, she became the first Chinese American woman to earn a pilot license. At the time, only about 1 percent of pilots in the United States were women. As a member of The Ninety-Nines, an organization of women pilots, she paved the way for thousands of women to take to the skies.

There are more than 20 million Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders in the United States. Each day, through their actions, they make America more vibrant, more prosperous, and more secure. Our Nation is particularly grateful to the many Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders who have served and are currently serving in our Armed Forces, protecting the Nation, and promoting freedom and peace around the world.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, DONALD J. TRUMP, President of the United States of America, by virtue of the authority vested in me by the Constitution and the laws of the United States, do hereby proclaim May 2017 as Asian American and Pacific Islander Heritage Month. The Congress, by Public Law 102–450, as amended, has also designated the month of May each year as "Asian/Pacific American Heritage Month." I encourage all Americans to learn more about our Asian American, Native Hawaiian, and Pacific Islander heritage, and to observe this month with appropriate programs and activities.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this twenty-eighth day of April, in the year of our Lord two thousand seventeen, and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundred and forty-first.

32nd National Leadership Training Program
Federal Asian Pacific American Council

Dear Friends:

I would like to welcome you to the 32nd National Leadership Training Program, hosted by the Federal Asian Pacific American Council (FAPAC).

The National Leadership Training Program is an incredible event that brings together many federal employees to discuss and promote the unique culture, diversity, and inclusion of the Asian-American and Pacific Islander community in the federal government. This conference provides a great opportunity to exchange practical knowledge and new strategies that you can use to help develop and advance your career in the federal government. I hope you take advantage of the various informative sessions and workshops throughout the duration of the conference.

Thank you to the event organizers and everyone whose hard work and dedication made this event possible. Best wishes for a memorable conference and for continued success in the years to come.

Sincerely,

Larry Hogan
Governor

Dear Friends:

As Chair of the Congressional Asian Pacific American Caucus (CAPAC), I would like to extend my deepest congratulations to the Federal Asian Pacific American Council (FAPAC) on your 32nd Annual National Leadership Training Program.

For more than three decades, FAPAC has played an instrumental role in supporting Asian American and Pacific Islander (AAPI) employees throughout the Federal and District of Columbia governments. The NLTP, in particular, continues to serve as a key opportunity for personal and career development that is critical to building a stronger pipeline for Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders in public service.

The theme this year, “Unite Our Voices by Speaking Together,” aptly represents the growing strength of AAPI voices throughout our government and country. As our voices continue to grow, we look forward to continuing to work with FAPAC to build a brighter future for our communities.

On behalf of the Members of the Congressional Asian Pacific American Caucus, I commend FAPAC and wish you continued success.

Sincerely,

JUDY CHU
Member of Congress
CAPAC Chair
Congress of the United States

Greetings from Congressman Ro Khanna to the FAPAC’s Annual Leadership Training

It gives me great pleasure to welcome everyone to the Federal Asian Pacific American Council’s Annual National Leadership Training Program.

FAPAC plays a critical role in promoting diversity across our government. By providing Asian American and Pacific Islander employees with training, mentoring, and workplace education, FAPAC ensures that Americans of all racial backgrounds are included in decision making in the federal government.

On behalf of the residents of California’s 17th Congressional District, I thank FAPAC for hosting this important event, and offer you and your members my wishes for your continued success.

Sincerely,

Ro Khanna
Member of Congress
Dear Friends:

I wish to extend my warmest greetings to the participants of the Federal Asian Pacific American Council’s (FAPAC) 32nd Annual National Leadership Training Program. I am delighted to recognize this event during Asian Pacific American Heritage Month, as we celebrate the rich heritage of Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders (AAPI), and recommit to improving opportunities for future generations.

For over three decades, FAPAC has been a strong advocate on behalf of the AAPI community, promoting diversity and equal opportunity for over 163,000 AAPI employees within the Federal and District of Columbia governments. I applaud FAPAC’s all-volunteer members for hosting this training program, and for dedicating their time to ensuring that our government better reflects the people it serves.

Congratulations to the civilian employees and military members who will be recognized at this year’s event for their service, leadership and contributions to workforce diversity. I thank you all for your public service and your work on behalf of the AAPI community. Please accept my best wishes for what I am sure will be an inspiring and productive program.

Sincerely,

Doris Matsui
Member of Congress

Dear Federal Asian Pacific American Council,

I am pleased to extend my warmest greetings to all gathered to celebrate the Federal Asian Pacific American Council (FAPAC)’s 32nd annual National Leadership Training Program (NLTP).

Since its founding in 1985, FAPAC has been at the forefront of the Asian American and Pacific Islander (AAPI) community as it has worked to improve opportunity, cultural diversity, participation, and advancement of AAPI employees in the government workforce. Through its many initiatives in education, mentoring, and development, FAPAC has been an effective force in assisting over thirty ethnically-distinct groups originating from Asian and Pacific regions.

Through the NLTP’s programming, federally-employed AAPIs have access to workshops on communications, career development, leadership, and diversity in the workplace presented by experienced senior government officials and dynamic trainers. FAPAC also partners with agencies in order to recognize the achievements of AAPIs, thereby bringing to light accomplished civilian and military AAPI employees.

At this year’s annual NLTP, FAPAC continues to build a strong tradition of personal and professional development, to ensure that the luminaries of the AAPI community can lead their neighbors – and, in the end, all Americans – to a brighter future.

Please accept my best wishes for your 32nd annual National Leadership Training Program and for much continued success!

Sincerely,

Grace Meng
Member of Congress

Federal Asian Pacific American Council
P. O. Box 23184
Washington, D.C. 20026 3184

Dear Olivia,

I would like to join you in welcoming those attending this year’s National Leadership Training Program. As you know, this marks the 32nd year that FAPAC has hosted this amazing event which brings together Asian and Pacific Islander federal and D.C. government employees and service members from across the nation so that we may unite as one voice.

I want to commend you on the work that you and your organization are doing on behalf of our people, and I look forward to continuing to work together to better our nation. Our people have so much to offer, and your mission to bring them all together is appreciated. I hope everyone at this year’s event will not only enjoy themselves, but also take what they have learned and share it with those who could not attend.

Thank you again for all you do, and please know that my office is always open to you, should you have any issues, questions, or simply want to say Talofa.

Fa’afetai tele lava,

Aumua Amata Coleman Radewagen
Member of Congress
Dear friends,

Greetings to my wonderful friends at the Federal Asian Pacific American Council! Please accept my warmest wishes as you celebrate your 32nd National Leadership Training Program.

I am moved to see our federal employees, military personnel, civil servants, and students gather together to share experiences and learn from one another. That you have made this gathering a priority for 32 years speaks to your remarkable dedication to shaping an exemplary federal workforce and your commitment to a bottom-up approach to professional development.

This year’s conference theme, “Uniting Our Voices by Speaking Together,” is timely and important. The conference is creating intentional spaces for people to engage across industries, learn from inspiring speakers, and exchange with colleagues at different points in their careers.

Once again, congratulations on all the excellent work you have done and will continue to do for our community. I wish you a meaningful and successful Leadership Training Program.

Very truly yours,

Jamie Raskin
Member of Congress
The FAPAC Distinguished Public Service Scholarship Endowment Fund, Inc. is a non-profit organization that promotes the recognition of Asian Pacific American students who are interested in public service and has made contributions to foster diversity and inclusion in the Asian Pacific American community. For more information or to donate to the Scholarship Fund, visit www.fapac.org/scholarship

The awardee will receive a stipend of $5,000 towards their education. The award is given out, on a rotational basis, to honor three distinguished Asian Pacific American pioneers and role models who's dedication and efforts in public service have opened the doors for many others.

- The late Congressman Dalip Singh Saund, an Indian American who was the first Asian Pacific American elected to Congress.
- Former Secretary Norman Y. Mineta, a Japanese American who was the first Asian Pacific American to serve in two Cabinet positions as Secretary of Commerce and Secretary of Transportation.
- Former Secretary Elaine L. Chao, a Chinese American who become the first Asian Pacific American woman to hold a Cabinet position as Secretary of Labor and is the longest serving Secretary of Labor.

The selection criteria includes the following:

- Demonstrated commitment to public service, including service to the AAPI community
- Demonstrated leadership and potential for continued growth in leadership skills
- Academic achievement

NORMAN Y. MINETA

Norman Y. Mineta, former Secretary of Commerce and Transportation

Norman Y. Mineta is the former Secretary of Transportation and founder of the Mineta Transportation Institute, lead agency of the Mineta National Transit Research Consortium. Secretary Norman Y. Mineta is well known for his work in transportation – including aviation, surface transportation, and infrastructure – and national security. He is recognized for his accomplishments in economic development, science and technology policy, foreign and domestic trade, budgetary issues and civil rights, as well as his perspective from having served in Congress for over 20 years and in the Cabinets of both Republican and Democratic presidents.

For almost 30 years, Secretary Mineta represented San Jose, California – the heart of Silicon Valley – first on the City Council, then as Mayor, and then from 1975-1995 as a Member of Congress. Throughout that time, Secretary Mineta was an advocate of the burgeoning technology industry. Secretary Mineta served as the Chairman of the House Transportation and Public Works Committee from 1992-1994, after having chaired the Subcommittee on Aviation and the Subcommittee on Surface Transportation. He was the primary author of the groundbreaking ISTEA legislation – the Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act of 1991. While in Congress, he co-founded the Congressional Asian Pacific American Caucus and was Chair of the National Civil Aviation Review Commission in 1997. In 2000, Secretary Mineta was appointed by President Bill Clinton as the United States Secretary of Commerce. At the Department of Commerce, Secretary Mineta was known for his work on technology issues, for achieving international cooperation and intergovernmental coordination on complex fisheries issues, and streamlining the patent and trademark process. From 2001-2006, Secretary Mineta served as Secretary of Transportation by President George W. Bush. Following the terrorist acts of September 11, 2001, Secretary Mineta guided the creation of the Transportation Security Administration.
The FAPAC Distinguished Public Service Scholarship Endowment Fund, Inc. is proud to announce the selection of Danicole Ramos for the 2017 Distinguished Public Service Scholarship in honor of former Secretary Norman Y. Mineta.

Danicole Ramos, a Filipino-American student with an undergraduate degree in Business Administration from Seattle University and is currently pursuing a Masters in Public Administration at American University as the recipient of the FAPAC Scholarship for 2017. Danicole, born and raised in Hawai‘i by immigrant parents who were active in several organizations such as United We Dream, one of the largest youth immigration advocacy organizations that collaborated with AAPI groups to help the community.

The award including a stipend of $5,000 was presented at the 32nd National Leadership Training Program from May 15-18, 2017 at the Hilton Hotel at 1750 Rockville Pike, Rockville, MD.

This is the winning Scholarship Award essay printed in its entirety.

As a Filipino-American, born and raised in Hawai‘i by immigrant parents, I have made a commitment to serve my Asian-Pacific Islander community as a way of acknowledging my heritage, while creating opportunities for people in my community to fulfill the “American dream,” like my family did for me. If given this scholarship, I will use it to finance my pursuit of a Master of Public Administration. I want to build a career in the non-profit sector, focusing on educational and economic empowerment for Asian-Pacific Islanders. My passion is aligning the head and heart of non-profits by implementing operational practices that empower and equip them to sustain their work.

Like Secretary Mineta, I graduated with a Bachelor of Arts in Business Administration. After college, Secretary Mineta served his country as a U.S. Army intelligence officer and continued his public service in Congress to promote civil rights legislation for Asian-Pacific Islanders. In addition to a non-profit career, I intend to enlist in the military like Secretary Mineta and become an officer for the Hawai‘i Air National Guard in their equal opportunity division. I want to channel my passions for promoting diversity through many avenues, while serving my country at the same time.

Currently, I am the Administrative and Operations Coordinator for United We Dream, the largest youth immigrant advocacy network in the nation. We partner with many Asian-Pacific Islander groups since about 10% of young undocumented immigrants identify with that community. In my role, I manage the organization’s day-to-day financial operations and oversee the contracts of its consultants and vendors. Even though much of my work is behind the scenes, I enjoy how I can utilize my education and personal background to manage the organization’s resources effectively to better advocate for our community.

I am also the operations specialist for Halau Nohona Hawai‘i, a Hawaiian cultural school in Washington D.C. In this role, I serve as a pro-bono consultant to improve the administrative efficiency of the school by authoring their first student handbook, writing grants up to $5,000, and developing improvements to their financial structure. My advice has helped the school sustain their mission of sharing the “aloha spirit” across the D.C. Metropolitan area. In return, I have found a place that has helped me stay grounded in the culture of my home state.

In addition to my current roles in Washington D.C., I previously served as the scholarship co-chairperson for the Filipino American Multi-Ethnic Society (FAMES) of Hawai‘i, a non-profit organization which awards scholarships to college students in Hawai‘i studying entrepreneurship and management. During my undergraduate years, I oversaw the lu‘au fundraiser for the Seattle University Hawai‘i club, where students from Hawai‘i have the opportunity to learn more about their Hawaiian culture and share it with the greater Seattle community. I also served as a peer mentor for first-year students of color with the Seattle University Office of Multicultural Affairs. In the political realm, I served as a campaign aide for a Hawai‘i state representative and U.S. congressional candidate, building Asian-Pacific Islander coalitions and providing insights to the candidates on issues impacting those communities.

In 2000, President Clinton nominated Mineta to be his Secretary of Commerce not only for his business expertise, but also because “...he has a deep concern for people...who are not yet fully participating in this economy”. With this scholarship, I can continue my professional endeavors with minimal financial burden, while pursuing to model Secretary Mineta’s head and heart as a leader.

OUR MISSION

The National Agricultural Statistics Service provides timely, accurate, and useful statistics in service to U.S. agriculture.

NASS proudly supports the Federal Asian Pacific American Council National Leadership Training Program.
Lily Qi, Assistant Chief Administrative Officer, Montgomery County, MD

Lily Qi is Assistant Chief Administrative Officer who oversees economic and workforce development in Montgomery County, Maryland. During her time in Montgomery County, she has led numerous public-private partnerships to advance Montgomery County’s economic competitiveness and innovation economy, and organization-wide initiatives to improve government cultural competency. Her appointment by County Executive Ike Leggett made her the first Chinese American appointed to a top-tier local government post in Montgomery County. Lily joined Montgomery County after a career as Vice President of Business Development and Marketing for the Washington, DC Economic Partnership and a spokesperson for the DC Department of Insurance, Securities and Banking.

An immigrant from Shanghai, China, Lily is also a community leader and activist. She writes and speaks on community integration, institutional cultural competency and Asian American issues. Her community leadership includes serving as Chair of the Maryland Governor’s Commission on Asian American Affairs, President of OCA-DC, and columnist for Asian Fortune, and board members of numerous community organizations including Leadership Montgomery and Montgomery Commission for Women. She is currently a trustee of the Suburban Hospital of Johns Hopkins Medicine.

Janet E. Sellars, Director of the Office of Education Langley Research Center, NASA

Janet E. Sellars is the Director of the Office of Education at NASA Langley Research Center in Hampton, Virginia. She has had a varied and distinguished career in the military and academia, as well as in equal employment opportunity and diversity that spans over 30 years.

Sellars has also served in the United States Air Force as a paralegal. She has worked as a college administrator for two graduate degree programs and taught paralegal studies at the undergraduate level.

Her responsibilities as the Director of Education at LRC include coordinating educational program efforts for national programs, building relationships with members of the education community to determine their needs and engage their support for current Center and Agency initiatives, and representing NASA Langley at other NASA Centers, NASA HQ, and outside academic, political and private sector organizations. She works to stimulate initiatives to develop outreach and collaborative efforts with the education community, other agencies, universities, and industry.

Sellars has served on the Board of Directors for the YWCA of the Virginia Peninsula. She was also a 2012 recipient of the Women of Distinction – Government award from the YWCA of the Virginia Peninsula.

Samuel Tinsing Mok, Condor International Advisors, LLC

Samuel Tinsing Mok is the Managing Member of Condor International Advisors, LLC, a Washington, DC, based management consulting firm providing innovative business relationship management and business advisory services. He served as the CFO of the U.S. Department of Labor from 2001 to 2007 under President George W. Bush. Previously he served as Managing Member of Condor Consulting LLC, Comptroller and the first career CFO of the U.S. Department of the Treasury, U.S. Foreign Service Officer, and Captain in the U.S. Army. Additionally, he was the Director of Accounting for Time-Life Books and Treasurer of U.S. News and World Report. Mr. Mok received his B.S. in Accounting from Fordham University and a M.A. in Accounting from The Catholic University of America. He is a Certified Government Financial Manager (CGFM), a Certified Internal Auditor (CIA) and is also a Certified Internal Control Auditor (CICA).

This panel will discuss the ways we can take our creative ideas, talents and skills to drive your passion to success through consistent, positive thoughts and actions. Starting a business can be daunting, creating a successful business takes persistence, and handling the ups and downs of “success” can be challenging. Listeners will walk away with valuable insights on how to make that leap into starting a venture, be persistent as your grow your business with pride and manage the failures and successes along the way. We will discuss the definition of “success” and how that is different for each person, and why that is important. We will discuss the fears and insecurities that hold us back, why we have them, and how to change our perspective through the power of positive thinking. Lastly, we will discuss competition among women, and the more valuable approach of collaboration.

Christine Chen, Executive Director, APIAVote
Christine Chen, the founding executive director from 2006-2008 returned to APIAVote in January 2011 to serve as its current Executive Director. During her tenure she had strengthened and expanded APIAVote’s partners into 17 states. APIAVote’s research and polling of Asian American voters and their regional trainings and field programs have strengthened the local grassroots programs in reaching and mobilizing Asian American and Pacific Islander voters. Profiled by Newsweek magazine in 2001 as one of 15 women who will shape America’s new century, Chen served from 2001 to 2005 as national executive director of the Organization of Chinese Americans (OCA), one of the leading APIA civil rights organizations in the country. Chen is well-known by activists across the county. Chen currently serves on the Kennedy Center Community Advisory Board, Center for Asian American Media, OCA Northern Virginia Chapter, and the advisory boards for the Asian Pacific American Medical Students Association (APAMSA), and CAPAL.

Jeannette Soon-Ludes, Director of Scholarships and Programs, APIASF
Jeannette Soon-Ludes is currently serving as the Director of Scholarships and Programs at the Asian & Pacific Islander American Scholarship Fund. She is also a recent graduate of the Women’s Studies doctoral program at the University of Maryland. Her dissertation, Dissonant Belonging and the Making of Community: Native Hawaiian Claims to Selfhood and Home, explores Kanaka Maoli (indigenous Hawaiian) identity formation. Her work is a critical intervention into discourses that frame multi-ethnicity as incompatible with indigenous identity, arguing instead that indigenous multi-ethnicity enables communities to thrive under conditions of colonialism. As an intellectual and administrator Jeannette is deeply invested in producing – and questioning – the ways in which Kanaka Maoli and other indigenous people find success in higher education. Her work in all these spaces strives toward producing individual “success” while questioning also the ways success is defined for Pacific Islander students.

G2. Guide to an effective federal workforce
1:30 PM - 3:15 PM | TRUMAN
The Merit System Principles (MSPs) specify actions that should (or should not) be taken to produce the desired outcomes of treating employees and applicants fairly in all aspects of their careers, protecting the rights of employees, and promoting the effective and efficient use of Federal resources. In order to be successful, all leaders should manage in accord with the MSPs. This session examines the meaning and intent of each Merit System Principle and why they are important. We will also discuss the findings and recommendations from the U.S. Merit Systems Protection Board’s research into best practices for upholding the Merit System Principles, as well as provide a summary of current agency training practices regarding the MSPs and employee perceptions regarding their agency’s success upholding the MSPs.

Cynthia H. Ferentinos, Ph.D., Senior Research Psychologist, U.S. MSPB
Cynthia Ferentinos is a Senior Research Psychologist with the U.S. Merit Systems Protection Board (MSPB), Office of Policy and Evaluation. Her research has focused on how to manage fairly and effectively in accord with the Merit System Principles.
System Principles, longitudinal trends in Federal employee opinions, and pay for performance compensation systems. During her Federal career, Dr. Ferentinos has also been employed with U.S. Customs and Border Protection, the Federal Aviation Administration and the U.S Army Research Institute. Dr. Ferentinos is a member of the American Psychological Association (APA), the Society for Industrial and Organizational Psychology (SIOP) and has a Ph.D. in Industrial-Organizational Psychology.

G3. Diversity Management from the Top
1:30 PM - 3:15 PM | MONROE

We have the opportunity to contribute to our society directly and indirectly through our professional walk. Our actions and/or lack thereof are extremely influential in how we impact others. This session will give leaders the opportunity to focus on the two components of an employee and what can be done as an individual to leverage their organization’s diversity efforts. Participants will spend time exploring the value of looking at situations from another person’s perspective. It will also offer attendees the opportunity to lay the foundation for action plans and methods to manage different situations in the workplace.

Patricia D. Jones, Certified Facilitator and Diversity Change Agent, BSEE, DOI
Patricia D. Jones’ formal education includes a Bachelor’s of Science Degree in Psychology from University of Phoenix. She’s a Client Facilitator for Franklin Covey’s Championing Diversity, Working at the Speed of Trust, Trust Foundations and Leading Across Generations Workshops. Patricia is a certified Department of The Interior One DOI Facilitator through the Collaborative Action and Dispute Resolution Office. She is an OPM Certified Master Game Changer for The New Inclusion Quotient “The New IQ”.

She facilitates workshops, serves as Mistress of Ceremony and orchestrates events throughout the Bureau of Safety and Environmental Enforcement (BSEE) and the Bureau of Ocean Energy Management (BOEM) with her Diversity Team to increase employee awareness of Diversity in both agencies. Patricia is sought out by other Federal Agencies for advice on implementing a successful Diversity Program.

As a 2015 Diversity Excellence Civilian Award recipient from the Federal Asian Pacific American Council and the 2016 BSEE Director’s Individual Gold Award recipient, the highest organizational award, she strives to achieve excellence in diversity, communication, and relationship building on a daily basis.

G4. Unconscious Bias I
1:30 PM - 3:15 PM | LINCOLN

The subtle messages we send one another in the workplace can cause us to feel connected or disconnected, engaged or disengaged, included or excluded. These messages can make or break a workplace for ourselves and those we serve. To transform the workforce, we must leverage the power of our unconscious mind and help others do the same. During this workshop, participants will 1) develop a greater understanding of inclusion; 2) examine micro-inequities and unconscious bias that limit inclusion; and, 3) learn to harness the power of micro-behaviors to develop highly productive teams.

Michael Murray, Deputy Director of ODI, OPM
Michael Murray is the Deputy Director of the Office of Diversity and Inclusion (ODI) at the U.S. Office of Personnel Management (OPM). In this role, Michael drives highly successful government-wide workforce initiatives with various diverse communities. Previously at OPM, Michael was responsible for steering and designing the government-wide policies and programs of 56 Federal agencies throughout the country to increase Federal employment of individuals with disabilities. By fostering teamwork and collaboration, Michael led the Federal government to successfully exceed historic records for the employment of people with disabilities.

Before joining OPM, Michael was the Chief Operating Officer for the American Association of People with Disabilities (AAPD), supporting private sector employers in creating innovative and high preforming teams. On the state level, Michael was the Executive Director of the North Carolina Disability Action Network, led efforts at Disability Rights N.C.; a local Center for Independent Living; and as vice-chair of the Statewide Independent Living Council. At the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, Michael and his colleagues established Beyond Academics, now our Nation’s largest post-secondary education program for people with intellectual disabilities. Michael is fluent in American Sign Language and holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Special Education.
H1. Why we should talk with each other
3:30 PM – 5:00 PM | WILSON

Synopsis: The purpose of this module of effective Conflict Management is to engage the participants in a discussion about the need for meaningful dialogs, and on the value and importance of talking with each other as required for a variety of situations at work. The training objectives are to generate open group conversations connected to five specific areas.

- Understanding why we should talk with each other at work
- How it impacts workplace safety
- Connection to vital information
- Effective collaborative problem solving
- Performance requirement

In each of these areas the training facilitator would be looking to have the participants share their opinions to enhance all attendees to the training on their total knowledge, and the natural diverse opinions that are expected. From the mixture of the rich information that will come from each topic area, the facilitator lead the training group in a rich discussion on the pros and cons of talking with other employees at different levels in their respective Agency, or Work-group. The terminal objective being; having an in-depth understanding on the importance, and value of adding their voice into conversations in many different situations in the modern diverse workforce.

Steven Dickerson, Conflict Management and Prevention Center (CMPC) Manager, FS, USDA

Steven W. Dickerson, LMSW is from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and a retired U.S. Marine with active military service near the end of the Vietnam War. While serving as an aviation mechanic in a Harrier (AV8-A) Squadron of the US Marines, Steven was involved in an aviation accident where he sustained injuries to his back, knees, and eyes that left him legally blind. These injuries eventually forced his medical retirement from active military service.

After Blind Rehabilitation training he returned to college where he earned an undergraduate degree in legal studies, and a Master’s Degree in Social Work.

Steven is a licensed master’s level social worker, and has extensive experience and training as a dispute resolution practitioner. Prior to Steven’s civil service career he worked 15 years of private practice as a dispute resolution practitioner and trauma counselor. Steven has held employment positions with the Department of The Navy, the Department of Veterans Affairs, and the USDA Forest Service.

Steven holds active membership with the International Critical Incident Stress Foundation, the National Association of Social Workers, The Association for Conflict Resolution, The Blind Veterans Association, and The Disabled American Veterans.

Steven’s conflict management credo is: “Conflict is a natural part of life. It is the unmanaged and unaddressed conflict that can lead to problems; constructive conflict engagement is a choice.”

H2. Lean Six-Sigma Project Management
3:30 PM – 5:00 PM | TRUMAN

This workshop describes using the Six Sigma, DMAIC (Define, Measure, Analyze, Improve, Control) in project management, process improvement, and how to improve everything one does.

Douglas Keeler, Associate Deputy Administrator, AMS, USDA

Douglas (Doug) Keeler began his public service career in the National Park Service where he worked for seven consecutive summers. After one year as a crewman he spent his subsequent years as a crew chief where he was responsible for numerous high visibility projects that consisted of nature made products designed to blend in with the environment. He was later commissioned as an officer in the United States Marine Corps where he accomplished the largest embarkation of combat equipment and troops on ship since the Vietnam War. Upon his retirement from the military he worked as a Program Manager for Naval Shipbuilding requirements were he created the first catalog of Marine Corps and Naval ground combat equipment which included data required for embarking aboard US Navy Ships.

As a government civil service employee Mr. Keeler was responsible for the Marine Corps’ signature Lean Six Sigma project where he directed three Master Black Belts in the creation of the Total Life Cycle Management concept and a governance structure for the Marine Corps. As part of the governance and oversight structure Mr. Keeler served as the Chairman of the Total Life Cycle Management Corporate Board which lead to the successful completion of over 20 projects and a cost savings of three times his budget for three consecutive years. Mr. Keeler joined USDA as the Associate Deputy Administrator for Poultry Programs where he continued as the Associate into the merger of the Livestock Poultry and Seed Program (LPS) until his assignment as the Associate Deputy Administrator for Science & Technology. Mr. Keeler is a graduate of the Federal Executive Institutes Leadership for a Democratic Society and of the Office of Management & Budget Senior Executive Service Candidate Development Program where he served as a Senior Program Examiner in OMB’s National Security Division. Mr. Keeler holds a Master’s degree in Project Management, is a Project Management Professional (PMP) and is DAWIA Certified in Life Cycle Logistics and Program Management. He is also a Lean Six-Sigma Green Belt and a lifetime member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) and Military Officers Association of America.

H3. Tips for Effective Public Speaking
3:30 PM – 5:00 PM | MONROE
This workshop provides tips on Public Speaking with less anxiety and more enjoyment.

John M. Robinson, Director of the Office of Civil Rights and Chief Diversity Officer, State Department (Ret)
John M. Robinson was appointed Director of the Office of Civil Rights and Chief Diversity Officer for the Department of State in March, 2008. He serves as primary advisor to the Secretary of State and his senior leadership on EEO, diversity, affirmative employment, and related issues.

Prior to this appointment, Mr. Robinson was the first Chief of EEO and Diversity for the Office of the Director of National Intelligence. He served in a similar role for the Internal Revenue Service from 2001 to 2005.

Robinson was Senior Policy Advisor to the Secretary of the Department of Energy (DOE) from 1999 to 2001. There he was responsible for workplace and workforce improvements - i.e. employee relations, EEO reform, improving management practices, leadership development, labor relations, health and fitness, and community outreach. He helped DOE leaders recruit a more diverse workforce, achieve a healthier work style and create a more worker-friendly environment, all in partnership with DOE chapters of the National Treasury Employees Union. Mr. Robinson also led a Fact-Finding Delegation to DOE Nuclear Laboratories in the wake of the Wen Ho Lee Case; co-managed the DOE Task Force Against Racial Profiling; and was chief architect of the first DOE-Wide EEO/Diversity Stand Down.

Mr. Robinson completed a special assignment on the staff of the National Partnership for Reinventing Government, represented DOE on the White House Initiative on Asian American and Pacific Islanders and the EEO/NPR Government-Wide EEO Task Force. His federal service began in 1994 as Deputy Assistant Secretary in the Employment and Training Administration (ETA) of the U.S. Department of Labor (DOL). A consistent advocate for Total Quality Management and innovative management techniques, Mr. Robinson directed the U.S. Employment Service, was senior manager for ETA’s Reinvintion Team and a charter member of both the agency’s Enterprise Council for Training Excellence and the Labor/Management Partnership Council. He was also ETA’s principal delegate for the Northern Ireland Growth Challenge for workforce development, lead Labor official for the Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCU) Initiative, DOE Lead Executive for both the DC Assistance Project and the St.Petersburg, Florida Interagency Task Force.

Federal Employment – The Pathways to Federal Employment

This workshop is presented by OPM. Working as a Federal Employee is a rewarding experience with many opportunities for individual development as well as serving our communities. The Pathways Programs offer clear paths to Federal internships for students from high school through post-graduate school and to careers for recent graduates, and provide meaningful training and career development opportunities for individuals who are at the beginning of their Federal service.

Finding and applying for these great jobs can seem daunting. In this session, we will take the mystery out of USAJOBS.gov. Students will learn about the application process from start to finish, as well as learn about the opportunities afforded current students and recent college graduates, resume writing, and interview tips.

Welcome FAPAC Attendees!
FEARLESS IS KNOWING WE’RE IN IT TOGETHER.

When you have access to everything you need, you can do anything. That’s why we give you innovative resources that help you take charge of your health 24/7. And why we’re proud to support the Federal Asian Pacific American Council (FAPAC) and the 31st Annual National Leadership Training Program (NLTP). No one does more to help federal employees get healthy and live fearless.
